Lori Zeglarski is a Counsel in the litigation group that handles complex insurance and reinsurance matters.

Lori handles a wide variety of complex litigation matters, focusing her practice on insurance and reinsurance litigation and arbitration. She has substantial experience representing insurers and reinsurers in matters involving commercial liability, class actions, casualty, property, general liability, environmental liability, professional liability, directors and officers, errors and omissions and various other types of insurance disputes, including appellate work in both New York and New Jersey.

Lori's representation of insurers and reinsurers is also enhanced by work she performed while employed at a major New Jersey law firm representing policyholders in major coverage disputes.

Lori is also experienced in handling commercial litigation matters. She practices in both state and federal courts in New York and New Jersey.
