

Personal Injury Defense

Saiber's trial attorneys have successfully defended clients against a broad range of personal injury claims, including, premises liability, toxic torts, motor vehicle, workplace and construction accidents, products liability, negligent security and wrongful death.

We have extensive skill and experience litigating these matters in both state and federal courts, handling all aspects from inception through trial and appeal. We maintain relationships with experienced outside consultants and experts who assist us with pretrial discovery and at trial. We also work closely with our clients' in-house counsel and other personnel to improve the efficiency of case management and reduce costs.

In addition to litigating personal injury lawsuits, our attorneys present in-house seminars to educate clients on such issues as the state of the law. We also audit our clients' internal practices and provide counseling concerning risk management and the investigation of claims as they are reported.
